The Reverend James Caldwell Chapter

D.A.R.

The Reverend James Caldwell chapter, D.A.R. is named in honor of a Revolutionary minister of the old First Presbyterian Church, at the corner of Caldwell Place and Broad street, in the city of Elizabeth, New Jersey. This minister was known as the "Fighting Parson." The British soldiers had surrounded the church; the Colonists had exhausted their supply of ammunition. In desperation, Rev. Caldwell is said to have torn up his hymn and psalm-books and to have passed them to his soldiers to be used as wadding in their guns, crying, "Let them have it, Boys."

Reverend Caldwell was born in 1734, and his wife in 1732. They were married in 1763, and their bodies lie buried side by side in the old cemetery which surrounds the church where they served. In 1846 a suitable monument was erected to their memory. The stone has weathered badly during these ninety-nine years, so the inscriptions are barely legible, but read in part as follows:

Monument erected to the memory of the Reverend James Caldwell, and to Hannah, wife of the Reverend James Caldwell,
Daughter of John Ogden of Newark.

James Caldwell.
Born in Charlotte County, Virginia, April, 1734.

A bronze plaque on the front of the church reads:

First Presbyterian Church

Organized 1664

Elizabeth, New Jersey

"The edifice which stood on this spot was burned by the British, Jan. 25, 1780, during the pastorate of Rev. James Caldwell, Chaplain in the New Jersey Brigade under Washington. This building was completed in 1789. Thirty-six commissioned officers and many non-commissioned officers and privates from the congregation fought during the Revolution for American Independence."

Allyn Genealogy

1605-1945

The Allyn Family

There was from the first two spellings of this name but the Allen family was not related to the Allyn family. The Allen family came from Enfield and settled in East Windsor. The Henry Allyn family came with Mr. Warham's company, in 1636, to Windsor. Another Scotch family by the name Allyn came fifty years later.

The early settlers of Windsor, Conn. were descended from one of the noblest companies of Puritan pilgrims that came to America.

This company of 140 persons sailed from Plymouth in England, on the 20th day of March, 1630, in the ship "Mary & John" of 400 tons burden. On the Lord's day, May the 30th, 1630, their good ship came to anchor on the New England coast. After landing at Nantasket they obtained a boat and proceeded up Charles river and began a settlement which they named Dorchester. The forethought and provision for the sustenance of such a company in the new world had been very deficient, hence much suffering followed.

This people remained at Dorchester five years, when in the autumn of 1635, they determined to remove to Matianuck, afterwards Windsor, on the Conn. R.

On the fifteenth day of October (1635), about sixty men, women and children, set forth from Dorchester driving their cattle and swine before them on their long and toilsome journey to the valley of the Connecticut. Their household furniture, bedding and winter provisions were sent around by water, and it is probable that some of the families also took this means of conveyance.

"Never before had the forests of America witnessed such a scene as this." The compass their only guide through the bewildering mazes of unbroken forests, commencing and ending each day's march with songs of praise, and heartfelt utterances of prayer which sounded strangely amid these solitudes they pursued their hazardous undertaking. After a wearisome journey of two weeks, through swamps and thick forests, over mountains and hills, across rivers and many streams of water which were passed often with great difficulty and peril, they reached their place of destination, the Connecticut river; but before all of the company and their cattle could be transported across the river, the winter closed upon them. Winter setting in unusually early, the river was closed on the fifteenth of November, and as yet the vessel containing their household goods and provisions had not arrived, nor were there any tidings of it. The rude shelter and accommodations, which had been provided for themselves and their cattle, proved to be quite insufficient to protect them against the extreme inclemency of the season. They were able to get only a part of their cattle across the river, the remainder were left to winter themselves as best they could, on the browse of the trees, acorns, and roots of the forest.

By the first of December the condition of the infant colonies on the river was perilous in the extreme. Many were destitute of provisions, and the only alternative was to reach their vessel, which was supposed to be fast in the ice below. A company of seventy, of all ages and both sex, now set out in search, intending doubtless to winter on board the vessel. Shelterless and scantily supplied with food, they toiled on, day after day, through snows and storms, hoping at every turn of the stream to discover the wished for relief. Who can picture the sufferings of that painful march, or their inexpressible disappointment as they approached the sea, in not finding the vessel for which they were so anxiously looking. But God, in whom they trusted, was not unmindful of His suffering ones. A small vessel, the Rebecca, of sixty tons, which had attempted to ascend the river, to trade, before the winter set in, had become entangled in the ice, twenty miles from the river's mouth. Fortunately, a storm of rain came, which, though it drenched the sufferers, released the vessel, which came to their relief, and in five days they reached Boston. The few who remained in Conn. through this fearful winter, suffered much, as did their cattle also, from insufficiency of both food and shelter. They literally lived on acorns, malt, and grains, with what food they could gain by hunting, and such as was given them by the Indians.

In the month of March, 1636, Conn. was set apart as a colony, under a commission, granted by the general court of Massachusetts, "to several persons to govern the people of Connecticut for the space of a year next coming." With the first down of spring, April, 16, 1636, those brave hearts who had survived the toils and exposures of the previous winter, again turned undauntedly their footsteps towards Connecticut. They comprised the largest part of the Dorchester church, with their surviving pastor, Mr. Warham. Their settlement, at Matianuck, was named Dorchester, which they retained until 1650 when it was changed to Windsor.

In June following, came the venerable Hooker, with his companions from Cambridge, Mass., who settled at Suckiaug, now the beautiful city of Hartford, where a few settlers had "made a goodly beginning a little before."

Such were the trials, exposures, hardships, and sufferings through which the first settlers of Windsor passed, before they found permanent homes in America. A like honor is attached to the descendants of nearly all the early settlers of New England.

ALLYN GENEALOGY

Ancient Windsor, England, held three distinct families of this name; one of Allen, and two of Allyn. The former, Allen, was mostly confined to Enfield Windsor and of the latter, Allyn, one was of Scotch and the other of English origin.

Much difficulty has been experienced in trying to disentangle and arrange these families owing to disregard displayed as to orthographical correctness by town clerks, gravestone cutters, and individuals, in spelling the name.

SAMUEL ALLEN --

Brother to Thomas and Matthew Allyn. Born in England about 1588. Came from Braintree, Essex Co., England. to Cambridge, Mass., 1632.

THOMAS ALLYN --

Brother of Samuel Allen and Col. Matthew Allyn. Deacon Thos. Allyn came first to Cambridge, Mass., from England in 1632. Moved to Hartford with his brother Matthew in 1635. Was Representative of General Court and a man of affairs.

MATTHEW ALLYN --

Came from Brompton Co., Devonshire, England. Settled in Charleston, Mass., in 1632. Representative to court every year except one from 1648 to 1658. Magistrate of the colony from 1657 to 1667. Commander of United Colonies-- a man of affairs. "Few men had more influence or received more honor than Mr. Allyn" (Hinman). He was energetic, wilful, persistent, just, highminded. Because of his personal views regarding baptism, he was asked to withdraw from the church. Died Feb. 1670-1.

("Auld Mrs. Allyn" -- probably the mother of Thos. and Matthew, died in 1675.)

THE HISTORY OF THE
CITY OF BOSTON

The city of Boston, situated on a neck of land between the harbor and the bay, was first settled by a small number of Englishmen in 1630. The settlement was founded by a group of Puritan ministers and laymen, who had fled from the religious persecution in England. They were led by John Winthrop, who gave the city the name of Boston in honor of the town in Lincolnshire, England. The city grew rapidly, and by 1680 it had become one of the largest and most important cities in the New England colonies. It was the center of the Puritan movement, and the seat of the Massachusetts Bay government. The city was the site of many important events in the history of the American Revolution, including the Boston Tea Party and the Battle of the Clouds. The city was also the center of the abolitionist movement, and the site of many important events in the history of the American Civil War. The city of Boston is now one of the largest and most important cities in the United States, and is known for its rich history and culture.

THE HISTORY OF THE
CITY OF BOSTON

From the first settlement of the English in 1630 to the present time the city of Boston has been the seat of the most important and interesting events in the history of the American people.

The city of Boston was founded in 1630 by a group of Puritan settlers who came from England to seek religious freedom and to establish a new society based on the principles of the Bible.

The city of Boston was the first to be founded by English settlers in North America. It was the first to be founded by a group of Puritans who came from England to seek religious freedom and to establish a new society based on the principles of the Bible.

DEATH OF EX-MAYOR T. M. ALLYN

The Hon. Timothy M. Allyn is dead. His death occurred, somewhat unexpectedly to his friends and the public, at his residence on Trumbull street, next to the Allyn House, last evening, August 24. Mr. Allyn was 82 years of age. His birth took place in an ancient frame house, which is still standing in a delapidated condition on the west side of the street on the Hartford and Windsor boundary line, in the year 1800. He had kept his health and vigor, and maintained much of his customary activity, until within a week or two before his death. His commanding figure was for many years a familiar sight to Hartford people, as he rode through the streets on his showy charger. His active and liberal interest in things that tended to aid the prosperity of Hartford, and the welfare of those in need of help or reform, was a marked trait of Mr. Allyn throughout all his later years. His prominent part in city and business affairs was shown in the fact of the many important and responsible directorships that he held, in business and financial institutions, and in his election as Mayor of the city.

Mr. Allyn first tried his fortune, as a young man, in what was then "the west". Having accumulated a little capital he went (in 1827) into business in New York, as a wholesale dry-goods trader, returning, three years later, to Hartford. Here he went into partnership with his brother, Job Allyn, opening a wholesale dry-goods and commission house on the north side of Asylum street, between Main and Trumbull. The financial stringency following the "bank" panic in '34 led the house to compromise with its creditors for 33 1/3 cents on the dollar, and the firm then went on prosperously until the general crash of '37. That forced them to make another settlement, this time at 66 2/3 cents,--every dollar of indebtedness being paid on those terms. The house prospered, and T.M. Allyn became, five years later, the sole member of the firm. In 1848 he retired from the business with a handsome fortune; but he subsequently became a member of the Asylum street house of Spencer, White & Co. His investments were largely in insurance and bank stocks, and in real estate. He was one of the originators of the Hartford Carpet company in the shape which that prosperous concern assumed, when, under his sagacious lead, with others, it was bought from Mr. Thompson and the original owners, at Thompsonville. He became the president of the company. Its stock became (and is) very valuable, and Mr. Allyn found it a profitable investment. He must have died worth upwards of $1,000,000.

He built the Allyn House, the most prominent of the Hartford hotels, some years before the war-- adding the beautiful and spacious public hall, known as Allyn Hall, a little later. The fine freestone building known as the Charter Oak Bank building, on the corner east of and opposite the Allyn House, was built by him about that time.

The location of his lots and buildings on those corners of Trumbull and Asylum streets showed his good judgement as to the tendency of business and the rise of values as long ago as 1850 or thereabouts. The Allyn House corner he bought of the estate of George Goodwin, a well known old Hartford printer and newspaper publisher, whose death had occurred only a few years previous. Mr. Allyn always desired to make that the central point of the city, and sought at one time to get the Post Office located in that neighborhood. He offered $40,000 to the Young Men's Institute (now the Hartford Library), on condition that it would take the name of the Allyn Library Association, and take the Allyn Hall building for its location. The offer was not taken.

He was in '43 a representative of Hartford in the legislature. Later, he was an alderman, and a member of the board of Water Commissioners at one time.

In 1858 he was elected mayor-- which office he held with credit, till 1860. In '64 he was elected Major of the Putnam Phalanx.

In his early life a democrat, Mr. Allyn became a republican; but he was never very active or prominent in politics. His chief distinction was in business circles. He was a director in the Connecticut Industrial School for Girls, at Middletown, to which he gave $10,000 at one time, and one of its chief buildings is named the Allyn Home. He was also a director in the Hartford Carpet Company, the Connecticut Western Railroad Company, the Hartford Steam Company, the Connecticut Fire Insurance Company, the Security Company, the Spring Grove Cemetery, and the Connecticut School of Design.

Mr. Allyn was during the last thirty years of his life a Spiritualist. During the continuance of the beautiful Unitarian church (the Rev. Mr. Hinckley) on the corner was occupied by the Charter Oak Bank, he was an attendant, and we believe a member of that church; and he was instrumental in getting the building removed, a couple of years before the war, to make room for the Bank building. The church, a very symmetrical building of freestone, was carefully taken down and the stones used, as nearly as possible in the same relative positions, in the construction of the existing elegant Trinity church, on Sigourney street, which very closely resembles the old one.

It is a singular circumstance that Mr. Allyn died just as his latest work, the beautiful granite mausoleum known as the Allyn Chapel in Spring Grove cemetery, was finished. The completing figures, the five marble statues just below the base of the dome, had just been placed in position, and the lot had just been graded and made an attractive part of that interesting feature of the grounds, when the projector of the building died, and his body, it is said, will repose in the apse.

This beautiful chapel, or mausoleum, is one of the most perfect pieces of symmetrical necrological architecture to be found in this or any other country.

Mr. Allyn was the father of seven children-- four of whom are living. One is a considerable farmer in Wisconsin; another, Major Arthur W. Allyn, formerly of the U.S. army, is in business in Chicago; another is living abroad, and the fourth son, Robert Allyn, has for some time been his father's assistant at home. (Mr. R.J. Allyn, proprietor of the Allyn House, was a nephew of the subject of this notice.) The mother of these sons, who was formerly Miss Susan Pratt, survives her husband. She was the daughter of Postmaster Joseph Pratt, who died some thirty-three or four years ago, and is a sister of Joseph and Esther Pratt. A deceased son of Mr. Allyn's who was named for his grandfather, Joseph Pratt Allyn, was made a federal judge in Arizona when that territory was organized. He gave $5,000 for the Putnam statue on Bushnell park.

In Memoriam

Allyn

Emily A. Forman was born near Lexington, Kentucky, September 26, 1821, and died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. G. Rohrer, near Waverly, Ill., September 29, 1908. She was the eldest daughter of Benjamin and Eliza Forman, her father dying when she was a small girl. A few years afterward, with her mother and family, she came to Illinois, where she professed religion and joined the Methodist Episcopal church under the ministry of the sainted preacher Peter Akers.

March 29, 1838, she was united in marriage to Henry Allyn, a young Methodist preacher, and was a good help-mate in every respect in her home and church work. In those days it meant a great sacrifice to be a Methodist circuit rider's wife, he being absent about four weeks at a time, preaching almost daily, leaving his wife and family at home, often living in a two-room parsonage with very few conveniences. Our mother was a true, faithful christian, making the best of everything, she gathering her family of small children around the family altar every morning and evening, and reading the Holy Word of God and asking His blessing on the church and her little family, whom she felt and knew she was taking care of.

Her husband, after a severe illness of typhoid fever, was taken to his Heavenly home November 14, 1855. His wife was left with six small children, the youngest one dying in early childhood, leaving the mother with the remaining ones, who grew up to manhood and womanhood and are all with us, with one exception, today. The names of these children are: Mrs. Lucy Rohrer, Mrs. Eliza Stone of Springfield, George and John Allyn of Mount Ayr, Iowa, and Miss Angie M. Allyn of Waverly, Ill. She leaves two sisters, Mrs. Virginia Clark of Springfield, and Mrs. Mary Rynders of Rohrer. Deceased also leaves eleven grandchildren and two great-grandchildren, besides a host of other relatives and friends.

Funeral services were held at Rohrer chapel at 10 a.m. Thursday, October 1, conducted by Rev. M.L. Browning of Palmyra, assisted by Rev. R.P. Droke of Waverly. Music was rendered by a choir composed of Mrs. J.H. Shutt, Misses Margaret Tietgen and Minnie Neece, and Messrs. C.F. Wemple and Wayne Carter. The remains were interred in the Pulliam cemetery.

The pall-bearers were: M.J. Allyn, Dr. W.H. Allyn, Thomas Harris, Percy Stone, Oscar A. Rohrer and Herbert Rohrer.

Those from a distance attending the funeral were: Mrs. Virginia Clark and Mrs. Kate Hermans of Springfield, Ill., Mrs. Delia Myars of San Diego, Cal.; Mr. George Allyn of Mount Ayr, Ia.; Mrs. Thomas S. Knowles of Jacksonville, and Mr. and Mrs. Stone and Percy A. Stone of Springfield.

In Memoriam

Mrs. Susan E. Allyn was born in Bourbon County, Ky., February 9th, 1823. When she was 12 years old she moved with her family to near Palmyra, Mo. After a short residence there, the family moved to Macoupin County, Ill., where she resided until her death. She united with the Christian Church at Old Concord, in Morgan County, in the year 1841, and was baptized by David P. Henderson, one of the pioneer preachers of that denomination. She was married to Walter W. Allyn July 6th, 1843; to them three children were born, viz: Benjamin T., Richard T. and John M. Her husband died Nov. 15th, 1862. She lived in widowhood the remainder of her long life, and devoted herself to the care of her three sons. Benjamin T. died May 22nd, 1895. Richard T. and John M. survive her. Besides her two sons she left to mourn her loss two sisters, Mrs. Emily A. Allyn and Leucretia Kelly, and two half sisters, Mrs. Mary E. Roher, of Waverly, and Mrs. V. E. Clark, of Springfield, and one half brother, Sidney T. Harris, of Modesto, beside ten grandchildren and one great grandchild. She was a woman of more than ordinary fortitude and perseverance. She had borne uncomplainingly the many hardships of the early settlers of Illinois and contributed very largely to the acquiring of sufficient property to make herself and family comfortable. For fifteen years before her death she suffered with rheumatism, being unable to walk a greater part of the time, but bore it

The first thing I noticed when I stepped out of the car was the cold. It was a sharp contrast to the warm blanket of the car's interior. I shivered slightly, pulling my coat closer. The air was crisp and clear, a welcome change from the smog of the city. I took a deep breath, savoring the fresh scent of the morning. The sun was just beginning to rise, casting a soft, golden glow over the landscape. The trees were bare, their branches reaching out like skeletal fingers against the pale sky. The ground was covered in a thin layer of frost, glistening in the low light. I walked slowly, my boots crunching on the icy surface. The silence was profound, broken only by the occasional rustle of leaves or the distant hum of a car. I felt a sense of peace and solitude, a moment of quiet reflection in the midst of a busy world. The cold was not unpleasant, it was invigorating. It reminded me of the resilience of nature, of the quiet strength of the earth. I continued my walk, the cold air filling my lungs, the sun warming my face. The world was beautiful in its simplicity, in its raw, unadorned state. I felt a part of something greater, a part of the eternal cycle of life and death, of growth and decay. The cold was a challenge, but it was also a gift. It was a reminder to embrace the present, to appreciate the beauty of the world as it is. I walked on, the cold air a constant companion, the sun a gentle guide. The world was mine, and I was grateful for every moment of it.

all with that Christian fortitude for which she was noted. Her spirit took its flight twenty minutes past 12 o'clock, Jan. 30th, 1898. The funeral services were conducted at the Christian Church, in Modesto, Feb. 1st, by Rev. W. H. McGinnis, of Athens, Ill., after which her remains were interred in Pulliam Cemetery.

In Memoriam

Caroline Allyn Gilmore

Life's race well run,
Life's work all done,
Life's victory won,
Now cometh rest.

Very truthfully does the above stanza describe the beautiful earthlife of Caroline Allyn, which began May 30, 1829, almost four score years ago, near Albany, New York, and peacefully closed October 28, 1908, and she entered into the rest for which she had for many years been longing.

Caroline was the youngest of eight children and the last survivor. Two of her brothers were members of the Southern Illinois Conference, and after many years of faithful service passed to their reward, Henry at Nashville, Ill., in 1856, and Norman at Bunker Hill, March 1864.

At the age of seven years she came west with her parents, Benjamin and Melly W. Allyn and settled in McCoupin county, near Waverly, Ill., where she lived until 1854, when she was united in marriage to William F. Gilmore and moved to a farm near Centralia, Ill., where she was living at the time of her death, with her granddaughter, Mrs. Nellie Marks, and family, who tenderly cared for her through a painful and lingering illness. She leaves to mourn her loss, her oldest son, William H. of Idaho Falls, Idaho, two sons and two daughters having preceded her to the better land. She also leaves four grandchildren and one great-grandchild, besides a host of sorrowing relatives and friends.

In early girlhood she was converted and united with the Methodist Episcopal Church, a fellowship loyally maintained through her long life. Her strong, forceful character made her a power for good in every position in life. Most faithfully she cared for her invalid husband until 1862, when his suffering ceased and she was left to fight life's battles alone, and very bravely she did it. As a mother most wisely and lovingly by bringing up her three fatherless children in the nurture and admonition of the Lord,, and not only they, but many others arise and call her blessed, because of her tender sympathy and helpful ministrations. In large measure she possessed the charity "that suffereth long and is kind, doeth not behave itself unseemly, is not easily provoked and thinketh no evil." And the Christian graces so abounded in her that was "neither barren or unfruitful in the knowledge of our Lord Jesus Christ," and those who loved her most and best are greatly comforted in believing that an entrance was ministered to her abundantly into the everlasting kingdom of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ.

Notes.

W.B. Miller:

Nome, Alaska. May 25, 1930.:

In my great grandfather's book (Henry Allyn's) he writes:****My grandfather, Ichabod Allyn was a Baptist Clergyman and a physician and by all accounts a man of eminent piety. He had placed my father in Harvard College to study medicine when young, but the call for soldiers in the Revolutionary War was so urgent that he left College and enlisted in the army."

CPB If that can be proved this establishes a direct line to any DAR claim.

There are Allyns in Clayton County, Iowa, near Garnavillo, the Will Allyn's whose father and mother settled there from Connecticut from near Mystic or New London.

My dear Mr. [Name],

I have just received your letter of the 10th inst. and am glad to hear that you are well. I am also well and hope this letter finds you the same. I have been thinking much of late about the future of our country and the state of our Union. It seems to me that we are passing through a great crisis and that the result will determine whether we are to remain a united people or become a collection of warring states. I believe that the only way to preserve our Union is by maintaining the principles of liberty and justice for all. I am sure that you will agree with me in this. I am, dear Mr. [Name], very truly yours,

WADSWORTH FAMILY

William Wadsworth came from the Yorkshire Wadsworths who trace their ancestry to Duke Wada, sometime before 800 A.D. Duke Wada lived in a castle at a place now called Mulgrave-- the neighborhood of Streanshalh. Wada was one of the principle conspirators among those who murdered Ethelred, King of Northumberland. His wife was the giantess Bell.

A Roman road, called "Wade's Causeway" was formed by Wada and Bell, he paving and she bringing stones in her apron.

The name Wadsworth originally signified Wada's or Waddy's residence; Worth, being derived from the Anglo-Saxon Wyrth, an estate or manor, usually well-watered.

William Wadsworth came from England in the ship "The Lion", landing at Boston 1632. He was one of Parson Hooker's Company that travelled through the wilds of Mass. and Conn. to Hartford in 1636.

CHARTER OAK

Tree 7 ft. in diameter in Hartford, Conn. Blew down in storm Aug. 21, 1856. Tradition accredited to it in 1789 that in a hollow of it was concealed the charter of Conn. rescued from Andros in 1687. James II. wishing to make Conn. a part of his consolidated New England under Andros, found its charter in the way; the colony declined to surrender it. On Oct. 31, 1687, Andros rode over from Norwich to Hartford, under orders to assume the government. He demanded surrender of the charter.

"The argument had stretched into evening and it was now dark. The candles were lighted. The charter was placed on the table before Andros; but just as he stretched out his hand to take it, the lights were suddenly extinguished... It took minutes for Mine Host Bradford to find flint in the darkness, and it was some time until the candles were "officially relighted" Meanwhile the charter had disappeared....

One of the windows of the Council Chamber was concealed behind a valance... Lt. (Joseph) Wadsworth.... apparently was hidden here, for Deputies John Talcott and Nathaniel Stanley seized the charter under cover of darkness and passed it to Wadsworth. The lieutenant hurried to the home of Samuel Wyllys, where, in the master's absence Mistress Ruth Wyllys helped Wadsworth hide Connecticut's charter in the hollow of the great oak which grew just to the left of the entrance to Wyllys' estate...

It was Halloween, the night that devils and witches were all abroad...

For a year and a half, Conn. submitted to Andros' government... The charter remained safely in its tree, now known as Charter Oak...

On May 9, 1689, Gov. Treat resumed the government of Conn. The charter, which "had been purchased by sacrifices and martyrdoms,"... was triumphantly removed from its oak.

"Charter Oak" had become a synonym for liberty, and the tree now became a historic shrine. In 1800 a daughter of Dr. Wyllys... wrote..." Within the space of eight years the cavity has closed as if it had fulfilled the divine purpose for which it had been reared."...

At 12:45 A.M. Aug. 21, 1856, the huge tree was felled by a storm. Its fallen trunk was draped with the stars and stripes.

The name (Charter Oak) has become a symbolism. It figures on the present State Capitol at Hartford...; the charter itself, framed in carved oak, is in the office of the Secretary of State.

Joseph Wadsworth

"He is most remembered with gratitude in our times as the preserver of the charter, in opposition to the demand of the royal Governor, by the perilous expedient of extinction of the lights in the Council Chamber Oct. 31, 1687, and hiding the parchment in the great oak.

He was a Lieutenant and served in Phillip's War."

Dear Nephue

Your much desired and long looked-for letter came to hand in two weeks after date. I intended to answer it immeadiately, but have been quite ill with the influenza for two weeks; since well of that, have for a few days been very busly engaged in begging for a poor family who, last Saturday evening lost all they had, by fire, not so much as one article of clothing saved, except what they had on; but I do not like excuses and therefore will make no more. And I hope that you will not delay writing so long again as to find it necessary to fill a whole page with apologies, for a whole sheet is not half large enough to contain all the information and news which I want to hear from the far-famed land which flows with milk and honey. You have, I suppose, only to cast the seed into the ground and leave it without any further care, to spring up, grow and ripen, while you are out on the Deer hunt or Turkey shooting or quail hunting. I think you would do well to bring a load here, for Turkeys are sold for 17 cents per pound, fowls 14 cents, fresh pork 14, salt 17, lard 20, butter 30 and Eggs 45 cents by the dozen and they have been as high as 50 cents this fall. Flower, 11 dollars lb, Indian meal, 40 cents a peck, Coal 15 dollars per ton, Wood 8 dollars per cord, and money very scarce- We have to work hard and get little, and for my own part, I have so little disposition to work, that if you have found a place where people can live without work, I shall be after comming. I conclude you will have cold fingers before you have finished all your corn, or do you let it stand out during the Winter to save the trouble of planting next spring? I have a great many questions asked me by those who know that I have friends at the west, -questions like these are asked, how do they like living there. What is their religious privileges; Have they Methodist preaching near, have they good schools, is it much of a place where they live, is it a village or is it a settlement. What do they do with so many peaches, do they make Brandy? or fat their Hogs on them? How far are they from any market. What did they give for their farm, how many acres have they, is it healthy there? Most of these questions are asked by your Grandmother everytime I see her. If I am to juge by what you have suffered in your father's family I should answer the last question in the negative- but I forbare untill I hear again- for it is not a positive proof that it is an unhealthy climate because one family has been sick. How is your mother's and your father's health now? How did Henry break his shoulder, -has he got well? Are you all well? I hope you will all be particular when you write and let me know exactly how it is with you- You said not one word about Norman- Where is he? How far from you- I wish he would write to me- give my love to him and tell him that I should have written to him if I had known where to direct a letter. I suppose you will have nothing to do but go to school this Winter. Do the girls go? I hope they will be kept in school all the while at Jacksonville or somewhere else- Does Elizabeth work at her trade any. or is there nobody to work for? Is it a good place for a taloress. Sister Briant and I often talk of comming out and establishing business there- if we do, we shall want one of your log houses or a new one built- I have heard that they give a dollar for making a pair of pantaloons and a dollar for making a shirt. Is it so? What is board per week. You will probably have a call from some of our eastern people next spring- Mr. Parsons told me the other day that he was resolved to go in the spring and get a place and return in the fall for his family. They are a fine family and first rate Methodists though possessed of the English peculiareities, but are none the worse from that.

He wished me to get what information I could from my friends. If you know of a good spot near pleas to name it Mr. Harington was in Baltimore last week, saw George, he was welland doing well- Your Grandmother has been very sick with Penepenumana but has got to be quite smart again. Mr. Marsh has mooved into the tenament over his store, they are all quite well--Mrs.----- is spending the winter with Mrs. Daniels. Are all well- Mr. Russell's family are all well and send their love to all- I saw Richard last evening he was quite well. I wish we had some of your peaches for Christmas. Mrs. Carter was in last week, she inquired very particularly about your people, their location and many questions which I could not answer- I hope that as soon as this reaches you, you will sit down and answer all the questions which I have asked and as many more as you can propose- I want that you should all write and that often- Tell your Mother I want she should write exactly What she thinks of Ill.- how she likes living there and whether it seems anything like home- whether she enjoys anymore privileges of meetings than she did in Schadack and whether she can in reality advise others to come- Mr. Samuel Sheldon died two weeks ago- was sick about 10 days, with the inflamation in the bowels--My own health is much better than it was last Summer, though debility seems to attach itself to my whole system-

I am a little sorry to hear you say you are not particular about a companion for life,- for I think a person should be very particular- however, I suppose you said that merely as a compliment to your-self- It so happened that Mrs. Burr did not go tp the west, so if you wish to see Mindwell you will have to come all the way-- and I think if she is not worth comming after she is not worth having- She does not sink in my estimation at all- She is just as amiyable as ever- I must close for our tea is ready, and I fear your patience will be exhariested- My love to all- Tell all to write and write yourself. Let me have a letter at least as often as once a month.

I remain as ever your affectionate Aunt

L. Wadsworth

Ps- I have no time either to correct or copy-please excuse all- L.W.

The Centennial

1826-1926

First Christian Church

Bloomington, Indiana

December 16 and 19, 1926

The early pioneers of the First Christian Church met in the beginning from house to house in the winter time and in a grove northeast of town in the summer time. At this early time, three men were prominent in the beginnings of the church: Stephen Seall, Jonathan Rogers, and John Henderson. --- In 1826-- lot number 167--- was deeded to the "Trustees of the Christian Church." A small building was there erected and thus began the establishment of the Christian Church in this county.

John Henderson was the first minister of this Church. He was born May 31, 1780, near Bedford, Indiana. He was noted as a great preacher and also an excellent singer. In fact, it has been said that his voice carried for long distances in the quiet summer evenings while he would preach and while he would sing. Not only did he minister to the Bloomington group, but he helped organize other churches around Bloomington. He became what was known in those days as a circuit rider, going to these places on horseback. Very often his wife would accompany him on these trips, both of them riding the same horse.

During his services as preacher in Bloomington, John Henderson was ordained. His ordination papers are at this time retained by his granddaughter, Mrs. Richard Allyn, Modesto, Ill.,---... His credentials read as follows:

"To the Brethren Greeting

This is to Certify to all to whom it may concern that on the --Day of May 1821 our Beloved Brother John Henderson was regularly Ordained and set apart to the work of the ministry in the Christian Church. By prayer and the laying on of hands according to the Directions of our Lord and his Apostles.

By Consent of the Church at Bloomington, Monroe County, State of Indiana, as witness our hands,

Cummins, Brown E..C..C."

In August of 1830 John Henderson left this pastorate. At his going the church gave him a letter to carry with him to other churches-- and is as follows:

"This is to Certify that Brother John Henderson, and his wife, Anna are both Members of the Church of Christ with us in Good Standing, and we recommend them to all Brethren and Sisters in the Lord.

Sind by order of the Church east of Bloomington.

Nov. 15, 1830

Stephen P. Seall Ruling Elder in the Church of Christ.

In Memoriam

David M. Henderson was born November 15, 1820, near Bloomington, Indiana, and died June 20, 1909, at 11:30 P.M. at his home in Modesto, Illinois.

Funeral services were held at the Christian church June 22nd. Rev. Livingston, of Waverly, officiating, assisted by M.L. Browning, pastor of the M.E. church of this place. Mr. Henderson had been married three times; first, when quite a young man, to Miss Emily Robinson who with an infant son died many years ago. The second wife was Miss Francis Williams, of Green Co., Illinois. To this union were born eight children: Lucy Wales, Belton, Mo.; Elisa Allyn, Modesto, Ill.; Charlotte Davidson; Fannie Wales, Milford, Mo; Emma Hodges, Eldorado, Kan.; James A. Henderson, Girard, Ill.; J. P. Henderson, Roodhouse, Ill.; and Lily, who died Sept. 29th 1892.

He was united in marriage the third time Oct. 15, 1882 to Mrs. Nancy J. Lane, Lewiston, Mont.

Mr. Henderson was a member of the Church of Christ, having made the good confession and was baptized when 20 years of age.

David M. Henderson's father was John Henderson, a pioneer preacher of Indiana and Illinois. He worked and was associated with Barton W. Stone, Alexander Campbell, James Mathes and was a distant relative of the Rev. Pat Henderson, so well known throughout the brotherhood.

A short time before the summons came to the dear one he said with Paul, I am ready to be offered up, I have fought a good fight, henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness which the judge shall give at the day of his appearing.

It is hard to feel and say, Thy will be done, but as our dear one must leave us, we are so thankful indeed the summons came during this the most beautiful month of all the year, when all nature is robed in her most gorgeous apparel and the birds are singing their sweetest songs, it seems a most fitting time for one so pure and good to lie down among the flowers and all the beauties of nature for the peaceful rest which comes to all who serve the Lord.

The body was interred in the Virden cemetery awaiting the Ressurrection of Life.

In Memoriam

Mrs. Nancy J. Henderson

WHITE HALL, Ill., June 10,-- Mrs. Nancy J. Henderson, 95, died in St. Joseph's hospital, Lewistown Mont., on June 3, according to word received today by her niece, Miss Mamie Griswold. Burial services were held there on Monday.

Mrs. Henderson, former resident of White Hall, sister of the late J.S. and W.C. Baker, went to Lewistown, Mont., in August, 1927, to visit her son, Senator James Eugene Lane, a leading capitalist and politician of the state. His death occurred suddenly on March 4, 1931. His death was a blow from which the aged mother never completely recovered, and it was accepted that she would never be able to return to her home in White Hall.

Mrs. Henderson was the daughter of Cuthbert and Mary Ecton Baker, and was born at Winchester, Ky., March 25, 1838, coming to Illinois with her parents when seven years of age, in a covered wagon. She was of a family of 14 children, eight of whom lived over 70 years. On Aug. 8, 1870, she and James Lane were married, he dying a few years later. On Oct. 3, 1882, she became the wife of David M. Henderson, of Modesto, and she resided at Modesto until his death on June 20, 1909, when she returned to White Hall. She is the last of the immediate family.

Her only son, J.E. Lane left White Hall when only 11 years of age for Nebraska and later settled in Montana, where he became identified with the lumber business, winning for himself a place in the business, financial and political life of Montana, of the highest order.

Mrs. Henderson leaves a record of the travels of the family from Kentucky to Illinois in May, 1843. They boarded a boat at Frankfort, Ky., for St. Louis, and thence up the Illinois river to Meredosia, going from there to Springfield on the first railroad in Illinois. The cars were drawn by mules, and mule team took them from Springfield to Mt. Pulaski, where Nancy Gardiner, sister of Mrs. Henderson's mother, resided. They returned to Winchester, Ky., in the fall of 1844, and a year later came to Winchester, Ill. The family moved to a farm near Pekin in 1850, and five years later came to Roodhouse, the family coming to White Hall following the Civil war.

Philippe de la Noye

Philip Delano was born in Leyden Holland, in 1602. The Delano family went to Leyden to escape persecution in France, where the Catholic party was in power and the Inquisition active... Thus Philip became affiliated with the Pilgrims who came over in the "Mayflower"... He is supposed to have been in the companionship the "Speedwell" ... which sprung a leak and returned to Plymouth, England, where the voyage was abandoned... Philip Delano came to America on the ship "Fortune" in 1621, then aged nineteen years... He settled in Duxbury... His farm... was northwest of Alden's... and comprised forty acres. He was... a volunteer in the Pequot War, June 7, 1637. He died at Bridgewater, Mass. about 1681... He married (first) at Duxbury, Dec. 19, 1634, Hester Dewsbery of Duxbury. He married (second) at Duxbury, 1657, Mary (Pontus) Glass... The children of Philip and Hester Delano:

- 1- Mary b 1635; mar. Johathan Dunham
  - 2- Esther b 1638.
  - 3- Philip, Jr. b 1640; mar. Elizabeth Clark
  - 4- Thomas (Dr.) b Mar. 21, 1642 mar. Mary Alden
  - 5- John b about 1644
  - 6- James d unmarried
  - 7 Lt. Jonathan b 1647; mar. Mercy Warren
  - 8- Rebecca b about 1651; mar. John Churchill
- The only child of Philip and Mary was:
- 9- Samuel b 1659; mar. Elizabeth Standish

The descendants of the Pilgrim ancestor, Philip Delano, of Plymouth, have the satisfaction of tracing their ancestry in the old country for a dozen centuries... The first Lord of Lannoy, progenitor of the family, was Hugues de Lannoy... in 1096... There seems to be no flaw in the following pedigree in the direct male line of the American emigrant, Philip Delano:

- 1- Arunlphe de Franchmont.....
- 13- Gysbert de Lannoy b. 1540, of Roman Catholic parents, but became a Protestant and was disinherited by his father.
- 14- Jean of Leyden, b. 1570 d. at Leyden, 1604. He married at the Walloon Church (Tornai) Jan. 13, 1596, Marie la Mahieu, of Brabant family.
- 15- Philip, the American emigrant...

The following lines of descent show some of the royal ancestors of Philip Delano.

- 1- Huclf, first Duke of the Normans, a Viking, A.D. 860
- 2- William Longsword, Duke of the Normans
- 3- Richard, the Fearless
- 4- Richard the Good
- 5- Robert I., the Devil
- 6- William the Conqueror, King of England, Duke of Normandy

- 7- Henry I., "Beauclerc."
- 8- Matilda, married Geoffrey Plantagenet.
- 9- Henry II., King of England, 1154 to 1189.
- 10- Matilda, married Henry V., Duke of Saxony and Bavaria.
- 11- Henry VI., married Agnes, daughter of Conrad, son of Frederick I., a descendant of Alfred the Great, (849), Cedric (495), and other ancient English noble and royal personages.
- 12- Agnes, married Otho, Duke of Bavaria.
- 13- Agnes, married Hellin de Franchmont.
- 14- Hellin (2).
- 15- Jean de Franchmont, born about 1300.
- 16- Hugues de Lannoy, born 1311, died 1349.

The line of Philip Delano is traced to Charlemagne and his ancestors to the year A.D. 1611, viz.:

- 1- St. Arnoul (611)
- 2- Ansegise, A.D. 679
- 3- Pepin Le Gros, 714
- 4- Charles Martel, Duke of the Franks, 741
- 5- Pepin, "the Short," King of France, 768
- 6- Emperor Charlemagne, 800.
- 7- Pepin, King of Italy.
- 8- Bernard, King of Italy.
- 9- Pepin (2)
- 10- Pepin, Comte de Vermandois.
- 11- Beatrix, married Robert, Duke of France.
- 12- Huguese the Great.
- 13- Hugues Capet, King of France.
- 14- Robert, the Saint, King of France.
- 15- Alix de France, married Boudouin, fifth Count of Flanders.
- 16- Judith, married Guelph, Duke of Bavaria.
- 17- Henry III., 18- Henry IV., 19- Henry V., 20- Henry VI.

Where the line connects with the one previous.

1. The first part of the report is a general introduction to the subject of the study. It discusses the importance of the problem and the objectives of the research. It also mentions the scope of the study and the methods used.

2. The second part of the report is a detailed description of the experimental setup. It includes a list of the materials and equipment used, and a description of the procedures followed during the experiment.

3. The third part of the report is a presentation of the results of the experiment. It includes a series of tables and graphs showing the data collected during the experiment. The results are discussed in detail, and the conclusions drawn from them are presented.

4. The fourth part of the report is a discussion of the results of the experiment. It compares the results with the theoretical predictions and with the results of other experiments. It also discusses the limitations of the experiment and the possibilities for further research.

5. The fifth part of the report is a conclusion. It summarizes the main findings of the experiment and the conclusions drawn from them. It also mentions the limitations of the experiment and the possibilities for further research.
